THE PRODUCT GUIDE

Project Profile:
CVLTVRA, Miami

Stackable Style

Ideal for outdoor dining, food courts and pool areas, the Uptown features a contoured polypropylene seat and back. These side chairs are stackable to six high and come in six tones. The Uptown's durable construction means it will hold up to harsh weather and high-traffic usage season after season, per the maker.

Contemporary Booth Seating

Shelby Williams' Chelsea line of booth seating features a wood base that traces the perimeter to create a warm, upscale appearance. Chelsea booth upholstery options can include standard plain back, button, deep tufting or X stitch. With no top cap framing the fabric as part of the back design, the fabric flows over the tops and sides of the booths.

Mesa Booth, Powered or Not

Plymold's contemporary Mesa Booth combines a powder-coated steel frame with the comfort of an upholstered booth. Single and double booths in 48- and 60-inch lengths are standard. An optional power package includes an outlet and two USB ports for device charging. Place the receptacle on the side or front of the seat cushion. The unit's 6-foot cord plugs into a standard wall outlet.

Archibald for Dining

The Archibald dining chair is Jean-Marie Massaud's reinterpretation of the original Archibald chair. The chair's shell and armrests are made from molded rigid polyurethane, while the internal padding consists of soft molded polyurethane and polyester wadding. The four-legged base is made from solid ash with a Wenge or Moka stain. Upholstery options include Pelle Frau leather with contrast stitching or fabric.
